

Photos courtesy of (CW from top left): Humboldt: Asians and Pacific Islanders in Solidarity; Spawning Ground; Ink People Center for the Arts; Denise Villalva; Monica Topping; Plants That Nurture Us

About Us

Ink People uses the power of art and culture to benefit our community — promoting artists and culture bearers, supporting public art, creating arts programming for youth, providing opportunities for arts education, engaging communities in creative wellbeing, responding to issues of human and ecological concern, and partnering with municipal, state, and tribal governments.

2023 Highlights

- Convening the Eureka Cultural Arts District working group
- Securing Transient Occupancy Tax funding for community-led arts and culture initiatives
- Supporting more than 100 independently directed, artist-led projects through our DreamMaker Program
- Hosting eight exhibitions at Brenda Tuxford Gallery
- Generating creative learning opportunities for underserved young people through the MARZ Project
- Representing the arts and culture of our region at the state level

Contact Us

- 👤 707.442.8413
- ✉ inkers@inkpeople.org
- 📍 627 3rd St, Eureka, CA, 95501
- 📷 @inkpeoplecenterforthearts

INK PEOPLE

CENTER FOR THE ARTS

2023

year in review

Contributions from Ink People supporters bring arts and culture into our community year-round. To ensure that independently-led endeavors like these continue to thrive, please make a gift this holiday season at www.inkpeople.org/donate, or mail a check using our envelope.

“There’s real power in cultivating spaces where people can express their sense of the world and if we, as a local community... continue to center that in our work, that will have meaningful and transformative impacts.”

—Leslie Castellano,
Ink People
Executive Director

